The Sacking of Winchester Twice

By Dr Tom Watson

During the Barons' War of 1216-17, Winchester was twice captured and occupied by French troops led by Prince Louis of France. In this talk, Tom Watson tells the story of why the barons invited the French to invade and how Winchester and the central South was affected. Warning: there is bloodshed, battles, the 'greatest-ever knight', and the warrior-bishop of Winchester.

Tom Watson MA PhD is Emeritus Professor in the Faculty of Media & Communication at Bournemouth University and co-editor of the Friends of Winchester Cathedral's online history journal, Record Extra.

The French in Romsey 1792-1805

Forgotten Stories

An Illustrated talk by Janet Cairney

Retirement enabled Janet to give more time to research and read about local history. When, in the summer of 2019, a letter arrived addressed to the Mayor of Romsey asking what was known about the presence of 'chouans' in the town in the early years of the nineteenth century, to which the answer, even from people who were steeped in local history, was nothing at all. It was intriguing, and led Janet to study for a MA degree in what remains a neglected part of our local history
